Outcome

What this proves

The lead path was checked from website form submission to inbox delivery and documented in a simple handover summary.

Privacy

What this is not

This is not a public client case study and does not show private client data. Real proof packs are shared directly with the paying client.

What the client receives

A Leads Rescue proof pack gives a business owner confidence that the enquiry path has been tested, the issue has been explained, and the final result has been verified.

1. Test submission log

Shows the form was actually submitted, with labelled tests and timestamps.

2. Inbox delivery check

Confirms the enquiry arrived where it should, without exposing private inbox screenshots publicly.

3. Reply path check

Confirms the owner can respond to the enquiry and the sender/reply path makes sense.

4. Issue summary

Explains what was wrong in plain English, without confusing technical noise.

5. Fix summary

Documents what was changed or checked, so the result is accountable.

6. Final verification

Confirms the final state and notes any follow-up monitoring needed.

Recommended public website wording

Example proof pack preview: After the fix, you receive a short proof summary showing test submissions, inbox delivery confirmation, what was checked, what changed, and final verification notes. This gives you evidence that your lead path is working again.

Example handover summary

Use this style for public examples and sales conversations. It is clear enough for non-technical business owners and does not expose internal email tools.
